THE WONDERS OF A WATCH.

Very few who carry a watch ever think of the unceasing labor it performs under what would be considered shabby treatment by any other machinery.

There are many who think that a watch ought to run for years without cleaning or a drop of oil. Read this and judge for yourself. The main wheel in an ordinary American watch makes four (4) revolutions a day of 24 hours, or 1,460 in a year. Next the center wheel 24 revolutions in a day, or 8,760 in a year. The third wheel 192 in a day, or $59,080 in a year. The fourth wheel 2,440 in a day, or 545,600 in a year. The fifth, or escape wheel 12,960 in a day, or 4,728,200 in a year. The ticks or beats are 388,800 in a day or 141,812,000 in a year.

SENATOR STANFORD DEAD.

Special to THE TELEGRAPH.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—United States senator, Leland Stanford, died at his home in Palo Alto last night.

—Rev. Mason was up from Amboy today.

—John Rock is spending this week at Jackson Park.

—Sheriff G. F. Stainbrook spent yesterday at Amboy.

—Misses Ella Williams and Emma Mc Allister are in Chicago.

—Mrs. C. H. Thomann has gone to Springfield to visit relatives.

—Miss Tessie Conners has gone to Beloit, Wisconsin, to visit relatives.

—Mrs. C. C. Hunt and daughter, Miss Nan, went to Chicago yesterday.

—Mrs. J. L. Willing, of Chicago, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Montraville Flatt, of South Dixon.

—Three insane persons were taken to Elgin insane asylum from the Whiteside county house last month.

—Mrs. Lizzie Curran and children have returned to visit with their mother and grandmother, Mrs Julia Ryan.

—The farmers of the Rock River Farmers' Association are holding their annual pic-nic at Assembly Park this afternoon.

—Supt. Wasley mourns the loss of a pair of gold rimmed eye glasses and case. On the outside of the case the stamp of O. B. Dodge appears.

—Street Sprinkling has become more universal than ever this year, and it adds greatly to the comfort of citizens and appearance to the city.

—L. Batty pled guilty to a charge of assault and battery this morning, and Justice W. W. Downing fined him three dollars and costs, which he paid and was released.

—A T. Cloutier has sent to this office the finest looking and tasting strawberries it has been our good fortune to meet with this year. The box was prettily decorated with a variety of roses.

—There comes the story of a scandal among neighbors in Nashua township, Ogle county. Too much sky-Larky-ing with neighbors' pretty wives. The afflicted husband should Souser in Honey Creek.

—Mr. Bloom, of Sunbury, Penn., who has been visiting his cousin, Mrs. J. J. Rhoads, took the morning train for Minneapolis, where he will stop for a short time. From there he will return to his home.

—The amended game law prohibits any more shooting of quail or prairie chickens for sale or shipment in Illinois in the next five years. A heavy penalty is attached. Hunters are allowed to kill them on their own land for their own use in the proper season.

—Frank Dillon of this city was yesterday morning married to Miss Mae, daughter of Cornelius Bachelor, of Rock Falls. The newly married couple took the first train for the White City, where they will spend a few days of pleasurable sightseeing before their return to Dixon, which will be their future home.

—Last Saturday, near Elgin, a farm house burned to the ground. It caught shortly after dinner and while the aged occupants and a weak-minded daughter were enjoying their accustomed afternoon nap. The old folks made good their escape and tried hard to rescue the daughter, but her remains were found later, burned to a crisp.

—Sterling Gazette: On last Sunday afternoon George Saxton, of Erie, aged seventeen years, was in swimming, with a number of other young lads, when he was drowned. The accident happened not over eight feet from shore. Some five years ago a brother of the deceased was drowned at Como, under circumstances somewhat similar.

—Last evening at nine o'clock Mr. Hiram A. Brooks and Miss Mary S. D. Fischer, daughter of and Mrs. E. E. Fischer, were united in wedlock by Rev. J. M. Ruthrauth; at the home of the ladies' parents in South Dixon, in the presence of a select circle of the relatives and friends of both parties. After a weeks visit with relatives in Amboy and vicinity, the happily united couple will make their home in Dixon.

—Mr. J. H. Downs has just completed the school census of District No. 1, Dixon, (South Side), and from his record has kindly furnished us the following figures: He finds the total number of persons under twenty-one years of age in the district to be 1893, of whom 979 are boys and 914 girls. Between the ages of six and twenty-one there are 700 boys and 638 girls; 1338 in all. This would leave 555 children as yet too young to attend the public schools. The statistics throughout show a healthy increase over those of last year. Mr. Downs finds the labor of taking the census very largely increased over that of last year, on account of the great number of additional houses erected and the fact that the city has reached so far out into the surrounding country.

—It turns out that the body of the man found in the river at Sterling Monday, is that of Chris Brandt, a German of that city. Marshal Ball was in Sterling Tuesday afternoon and attended the examination before the corner's jury. Brandt was last seen by his brother, August Brandt at 10 or 10:30 o'clock Sunday night. His mother and sister were called, but could not fully identify the body as that of their son and brother; but August stated positively that the clothing was that of his brother Chris. A closer examination developed in one of the pockets a pocket-knife, which all immediately recognized as beloning to him. His brother testified that when he last saw him Chris had a gold watch and chain. The absence of this and all other valuables and the large hole in the head, as if it had been crushed in with a blunt weapon, points clearly to a case of murder by some unknown party.

SPECIAL WORLD'S FAIR CORRESPONDENCE.

The Administration Building — Sunday Opening—Seats and Conveniences—Hints as to how to see the Fair.

Do you know what a nice cool place there is to rest in the rotunda of the Administration building? If near there, try it—better go on purpose. After resting take the free elevator to the tower. Here the view is fine in every direction; especially over the Court of Honor, including the Perestyle, and French's Statue of the Republic; which you would never imagine had a nose seven feet long. Then, too, you are near enough to see the interior decoration of the dome much better than you can from the ground floor.

I had come to this building, as I often do, for rest, and dropped down on one of the settees and was looking over the program for the day, when I heard the lady next me saying, "O, this Fair—this beautiful Fair; this is my second day and I enjoyed every moment of the time;" but adding with despair and distress in voice, "I never expect to come again." I am getting accustomed to seeing people faint and collapse, and all that; but here was something alarming. What could be the matter; was she going to die? And I hurridly asked, "Why—why can you never come again?" "If the Fair is opened on Sunday I shall not come again, it makes me so indignant." Her lips were closed very tight, her head thrown back in a statuesque, martyr sort of a way. I said, "Do you not feel you would be doing a wrong to deprive yourself of all this beautiful display of God's and man's creation, and of this great educational advantage because somebody—the majority do not think as you do?" She did not say yes, but looked relieved that there might be some way out of it, and probably thankful she had got two days, anyway. I was satisfied she was not a western woman and found upon inquiry she, too, was from New York. Later in the day when the boys began to cry, "Fair open on Sunday!" I imagined this woman scampering toward the gate, shaking the dust of the wicked White City from her feet.

The seating capacity all over the ground has been increased, so you can rest at short distances, making it very easy on people compared with what it was the first few weeks; yet the lack of toilet rooms has not been remedied as it should be. Everybody seems densely ignorant of the location of free toilet rooms, especially if they are employed in the vicinity of pay closets.

Free rooms are to be found in all the state buildings, in the Government and Woman's buildings. All these are equal in every particular to those which are charged for. On the Plaisance some of the restaurants have free toilet rooms. The pay rooms are to be found in the different large public building, except the United States.

If your time is limited, i. e., if you do not have weeks to stay, after visiting the Government go to the Liberal Arts building before the State or Foreign buildings; then if you do not have time for all, you will see the best from every nation.

In visiting the Art Gallery, do not try, the first time, to do any part of it thoroughly; even if you never go again, it is better to get a general idea of it as a whole than to lose any part of it entirely. Go through the entire gallery slowly; but do not try to study. Buy a catalogue, go home and study and mark it; then go again, and go as often as you can. If you can make a thorough study, buy an illustrated catalogue and the June Review of Reviews, read what Ernest Knauff says and consult your illustrated catalogue. In this way you will go well prepared to recognize the best there is to be seen in this wonderful collection.

For those wishing to stop down town there is a nice little hotel, just opposite the south entrance to the Auditorium. No meals are served; only rents rooms. It is called the University Hotel and is under the management of the Champaign University Alumni. The prices are from one dollar upward.

GOLD IS INVINCIBLE

Such Is the Opinion of Mr. Horace White.

SINGLE STANDARD ONLY POSSIBLE

And in the Stuggle for Supremacy the Yellow Metal Always Wins, Says the Speaker—An Interesting Paper Read Before the World's Congress of Commerce and Finance—History of the Agitation and Its Results.

CHICAGO, June 21.—There was a lot of railway and financial wisdom fired off inside the Art institute on the lake front, when the bankers, railway men and insurance men met there for their first business meeting. Lyman J. Gage is president of the whole congress, so he turned the chair over to Charles B. Parsons of St. Louis. Senator John Sherman was expected to take an important part in the meeting but sent a letter in which he said it was impossible for him to be present. Bradford Rhodes, of New York, was therefore called upon instead, and he proceeded to give a review of the banking business from the earliest times, saying that the first bank in history was at Venice, in the thirteenth century.

Some Things He Did Not Mention.

Mr. Rhodes didn't seem to remember that check given by Moses to Pharaoh on the Bank of the Red sea, or the way Pharaoh's daughter got a little prophet out of the rushes on the Bank of the Nile. Or perhaps he considered these instances of early banking operations chestnuts, and perhaps they are. He, however, recalled the history of the great banks of England, France, Ireland, Scotland and other banks of Europe and described their methods of doing business. All the banking associations of today are but schools of finance learning by hard knocks. The Simon Magus, or false prophet of finance, was usually a sincere man who didn't know much about banking. Financial questions should be discussed with great care and could only be settled by being settled right.

Spoke a Few Words of Railways.

Upon railway subjects John F. Dillon, general counsel of the Union Pacific railway, read an interesting paper entitled, "Constitutional Guaranties of Railway Properties and Franchises and Rates Against Legislative Spoliation." The railways of the United States own 193,000 miles of road worth in stocks and bonds $10,000,000,000. The roads were built and paid for by private individuals and not by the public. The immense sums needed to build these properties could be raised only by corporations, but in no true or legal sense were these railway corporations monopolies. But the railways have been attacked by legislation. Congress attacked them indirectly in the interstate commerce act and state legislatures directly by passing laws fixing the rates for business.

Protection for the Investors.

American railway shares are owned in all parts of the globe, and all are interested in knowing what constitutional guaranty they have against the spoliation and destruction of their property by legislation. The rates charged by a railway are its life, and if thesemay be cut down or demolished by a legislature, which can also declare what rates are fair, who would want to own a railway share? The founders of the government were neither fools nor anarchists. The constitution was to be the supreme law of the land and no state may pass laws that conflict with the constitution. The fifth amendment to the constitution provides that "no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law." The fourteenth amendment declares: "Nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, or deny to any person the full and equal protection of the law." This declaration of the constitution silences Prudhom's assertion that property is theft and property-owners are thieves.

Another Branch Set in Motion.

Another section of the congress which began discussion was the mutual life and accident underwriters. After the welcome by Mayor Harrison, F. A. Burnham, of New York, said that twenty years ago the right of a mutual insurance company to exist was denied by the law. Now they include in their membership one-fourth of the population of the country and have paid out in benefits up to date about $500,000,000.

Board of Trade Men Meet.

A special conference of bank examiners, state and national, was held to adopt their own organization and discuss matters pertaining to the supervision of the banking business. The congress of boards of trade also convened with William T. Baker in the chair. George F. Stone, secretary of the Chicago board of trade, made an address of welcome and the programme included other addresses by Denison B. Smith, secretary of the Produce Exchange, Toledo, O.; Hamilton Andrews Hill, secretary of the National board of trade, Boston, Mass.; E. P. Bacon, Milwaukee, Wis.; John A. Gano, Cincinnati, O.; Frank Galonnie, St. Louis, Mo., and A. C. Raymond, Detroit.

HORACE WHITE ON MONEY.

He Makes Some Remarks on the Single Gold Standard.

At night there was a general union meeting of the commerce and finance congresses in the Hall of Columbus, the principal feature of which was the address of Horace White, of New York, on "The Single Gold Standard." This was the feature, in fact, of the day's meetings, and there was a large audience to hear what the speaker would say. Mr. White began by saying that the most impressive fact in the world of finance was the dominance of the gold standard. It began in England nearly a century ago and had conquered one country after another until all civilized nations were brought under its sway. Three international congresses have been called to stay its march, and none had been held to assist it; the movement had been as little impeded as that of an ocean steamer would be by the action of a debating society in its own cabin.

Was all this due to human perversity, or had it a rational cause founded in the needs of mankind? Beginning with the experience of England, a sketch was given of the various coinage ratios established between gold and silver, showing how the government and society had strenuously sought to keep both metals in circulation, but had failed in every instance, and never succeeded in having a stable currency until they adopted the single gold standard. The experience of the United States was next considered. We followed the example of the old world when we adopted the double standard in 1792. The ratio of fifteen to one, which we chose, was as near as possible to the market ratio at that time, yet the market ratio changed within a comparatively short period.

Gold rose in comparison with silver. It became profitable to export the former. The yellow metal began to grow scarce in the year 1810, and had wholly disappeared from circulation in 1817. Our ancestors finally became tired of lugging silver around. In 1834 they made the ratio sixteen to one in order to bring back the gold and expel silver from circulation. The act did expel silver from circulation so completely that for a period of forty years nobody saw a silver dollar in circulation. The act of 1873, commonly called the demonetizing act, merely made the law conform to the pre-existing fact. The demonetization of silver, which was practically decreed in 1834 and legally decreed in 1853, had not been disturbed or reversed by any subsequent act.

The purchase of a limited amount of silver by the government was a very different thing from remonetization of that metal. The United States had adopted the single gold standard for the same reason that England did; namely, because it was the most convenient system. Prior to 1871 Germany had the single standard of silver. As soon as the north German confederation was formed the German economists began to advocate a plan for unification of the coinage. In the year 1867 an international monetary conference was held in Paris with this object in view. The German states, both north and south, were represented in this conference and they all voted in favor of the single gold standard.

THE INFLUENCE OF GERMANY.

White Thinks It Had Little to Do With the Depreciation.

It is said by some that Germany did all the mischief by her acts of 1871 and 1873; that she compelled France and the Latin union to close their mints to silver, and that this caused the great decline in the price of that metal. If this wtre true it might possess an academic but not a practical interest, since Germany is not answerable to other nations for her likes and dislikes. We cannot go back to 1871, nor blot out the intervening years. As to the decline in the price of silver, it had continued after Germany had completed her monetary reform. Germany ceased selling silver in 1879. The decline in silver up to that time had been 9 pence per ounce, but since that time it had been 13 pence.

This proves that there were other causes in operation even more potent than the action of Germany. France had the same experience as England in her endeavors to keep the two metals in circulation on a ratio fixed by law. There were twenty-six changes of the coinage ratio in a period of 200 years.

In 1873 there was a premium of 1⅜ per cent. on gold in the Paris market. Silver bullion was going to the mint in unusual amounts to be coined and exchanged for gold for export. It was now necessary for France to make a definite choice between silver and gold. The Latin union nations were hastily assembled in conference and they agreed to limit the coinage of silver to 120,000,000 francs per year for all the countries composing the union.

This coinage was to be only on government account. This was virtually the demonetization of silver in France, but the formal act closing the French mint to silver was not passed till 1876. The truth is that the gold standard made its way in France not only without any design on the part of individuals, but in spite of the strenuous resistance of almost all the men who busied themselves with the subject at all. It was the same way in Holland and Austria, a sketch of whose monetary legislation and experience was next given.

"Now, if we find a movement of civilized mankind going on steadily for 100 years," said the speaker, "working out, in different countries, uniform results which commend themselves to successive generations, the presumptions are all in favor of that movement being beneficial." The secret thought which paralyzed the Brussels conference and all other conferences was "What would happen the day after international bimetallism if individual men should continue to prefer one ounce of gold to sixteen ounces of silver?"

The speaker thought that the scramble for gold would be more pronounced the day after a bimetallic treaty than the day before, because everybody would suspect everybody else of gratifying his secret liking for gold at the expense of his neighbors. He considered the gold standard beneficial to all classes, and he examined and answered the various arguments advanced to show that it was detrimental to some. The present silver law, commonly called the Sherman law, was not bimetallism. It was based on the idea that the purchase of silver and the issuance of treasury notes against it increases the supply of money in the country, whereas it diminished it.

The Elks in Session.

A Remedy for Typhus.

ST. LOUIS, June 21.—A special from the City of Mexico says: Juan Covantes and Edoardo Armendaez were commissioned by the medical institute to make an analysis of jicama, which General Aureliian Rivera is administering gratis to the poor as a specific for typhus with wonderful results. The chemists find that the jicama is a valerianic root which gives a high acid reaction due to the great quantity of valeric acid which it contains.

VERDICT CHEERED

That Makes a Free Woman of Lizzie Borden.

THE CLOSE OF A REMARKABLE CASE

Accused of the Murder of Her Father and Stepmother the Defendant Lives Through It All with Dry Eyes Until the Blessed Relief of Tears Comes with Acquittal—Striking Scene in Court—Story of the Brutal Crime.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 21.—The trial of Lizzie Borden is over, and the woman who for months has been living with the shadow of an awful crime and its dread penalty hanging over her head is a free woman, acquitted by a jury of her countrymen. The cheer that greeted the jury's verdict might well bring tears to the eyes of the defendant—eyes that during all the long and intense strain of apprehension, imprisonment and trial have been dry. The most burning eloquence of the state had rung in her ears and those of the court, jury and audience for two days—on the one side vehemently demanding the full punishment of the law and on the other a clear acquittal at the hands of the tribunal. And when the last words were spoken, and the judge had charged those in whose hands Lizzie Borden's fate was placed there was another interval of intense anxiety of an hour and a half.

The Verdict of the Jury.

It was at 3 p. m. that the jurors retired to their room to deliberate on their decision. At 4:30 they filed into the room and the silence was intense. The jury was polled. Miss Borden was asked to stand up, and the foreman was asked to state the verdict, upon which he announced: "Not guilty." After the verdict had been received the district attorney moved that the other cases against Miss Borden be nolle prossed, and the order of the court was to that effect. The closing scenes of the trial were in direct contrast with those that had preceded. Theretofore all had been decorous and in keeping with the dignity of the most dignified court in the state. But when the verdict of not guilty was returned a cheer went up which might have been heard half a mile away through the open windows, and there was no attempt to check it. The stately judges looked straight ahead at the bare walls. Sheriff Wright was powerless to wield the gavel which lies ready for his use, and not once during the tremendous excitement which lasted fully a minute did he make the slightest sign of having heard it.

The Blessed Relief of Tears.

He never saw the people rising in their seats and waving their handkerchiefs in unison with their voices because his eyes were full of tears and were completely blinded for the time. Miss Borden's head went down on the rail in front of her and tears came where they had refused to come for many a long day, as she heard the sweetest words ever poured into her willing ears—the words "Not guilty." Mr. Jennings was almost crying and his voice broke as he put his hand out to Mr.

ANDREW J. BORDEN.

Adams who sat next to him and said: "Thank God," while Mr. Adams returned the pressure of the hand and seemed incapable of speech. Governor Robinson turned to the rapidly dissolving jury as they filed out of their seats and gleamed on them with a fatherly interest in his kindly eyes, and stood up as Mr. Knowlton and Mr. Moody came over to shake hands with the counsel for the defense.

To Her Desolate Home Again.

As soon as possible the room was cleared. When the spectators had finally gone Miss Borden was taken to the room of the justice and allowed to recover her composure with only the eyes of friends upon her and the caresses of devoted admirers. At the expiration of an hour she was placed in a carriage and driven to the station, where she took a train for Fall River, her home no longer probably, but still the only objective point for the immediate present.

AN UNSOLVABLE MYSTERY.

That Is What the Borden Murders Look Like Now.

If Lizzie Borden did not murder her father and stepmother who did? That is the question asked by the prosecution during the trial and it was on the theory that there was no one else to suspect that the prosecution largely arrested, and that is the question still unanswered. On the 4th day of August, 1892, between the hours of 9:30 and 11:30 a. m. Andrew Jackson Borden and Abby Durfee Borden were murdered at their home in Fall Rive. This is all that is known. For legally, and, many believe, morally, Lizzie Borden is guiltless.

Lizzie A. Borden, daughter of Andrew Jackson Borden, a woman now about 33 years old; her stepmother, Abby Durfee Borden, and Bridget Sullivan, a servant, were the only members of the family about the house. When Mr. Borden came home at about 10:45 that morning Bridget left him at the front door and in a few moments went to her room up-stairs. She had been engaged a good part of the morning ont of doors washing windows. There was absolutely no witness to the murders except the murderer.

Lizzie Borden's own account of the acts of herself that morning is all there is. She says that after her father came in she assisted him to get into a comfortable position on the lounge in the sitting-room, taking off his boots and putting on his slippers. Then she says she went into the yard, stopped a few minutes to gather and eat some pears, passed on into the barn and spent ten or fifteen minutes hunting for lead to make fishing-line sinkers. Going into the house she says she found her father had been murdered. She now called the servant and sent her at once for Dr. Bowen, who lived near by.

Asked where her stepmother was she said she did not know, but called to mind the fact that her stepmother had told her previously that she had received a note from a friend and in response was intending to call on that friend. However, Bridget was requested to look for her mistress, but she objected to going alone and Mrs. Churchill went with her. As the two women approached the top of the stairs leading to the second story they saw on the floor of the guest chamber the body of Mrs. Borden, also murdered.

THE DEED DONE WITH A HATCHET.

Conduct of the Suspected Woman While Aware of the Suspicions.

Both victims had been killed with a hatchet apparently. It was definitely determined at an autopsy subsequently held that Mrs. Borden had been killed some time before her husband. It was demonstrated conclusively that the death of Mr. Borden occurred within a very short time after he entered the house, and if Lizzie's story is correct some one did it while she was in the barn, while Bridget was in the attic, and while Mrs. Borden's lifeless body was lying in the room above her husband.

Nobody was seen to enter the house, and though several hatchets were found it could not be proved that the rust on them was caused by human blood. The case was circumstantial and outside of the general proposition that there was no one else to suspect, the fact that Lizzie and her stepmother were not friends and that the estrangement, as alleged, was the result of a dispute about property in which Lizzie expected to share was most relied on as providing the motive.

The neighbors and friends, the pastor of her church and Sunday school superintendent all united in praise of Miss Borden's exemplary life. Since the murder she had apparently been the most anxious to help the police officers in their search for clews, accompanied them in their search, helped them turn the house inside out and upside down to find the bloody hatchet and bloody clothes which must have been discarded by somebody before leaving that butchery.

She was calm and hopeful, courteous and ready with suggestions, though she realized that the men she aided suspected her of the unnatural crime. It is apalling to think that such a woman as Lizzie Borden has been pictured could have committed this crime of which she was formally accused before the court.

If she is is guilty she is a most remarkable combination of woman and demon. If she is not, a most pitiable outrage has been perpetrated in the name of law. In the mystery of the Nathan Murder in New York, the son, though proven guiltless, died with the brand of the suspect upon him. It matters not what was the verdict for this young woman, unless the murderer is found and proven guilty her life is blasted.

FOURTH OF JULY AT THE FAIR.

A Great Programme for the Birthday of the Nation.

CHICAGO, June 21.—Chauncey M. Depew and Edward Everett Hale will lead the van in oratory at the World fair on the great 4th of July. They will address patriotic multitudes as the sons of men who fought at Bunker Hill, and while their burning words of eloquence are thrilling thousands Frederick Douglass will read the declaration of independence to the assembled masses in the mammoth arena, and Robert T. Lincoln, as bearer of a great name, will proclaim the truths of liberty and equality before other thousands. Secretary Gresham will also have a platform, as the representative of the administration and government, made possible by the stirring events the occasion commemorates, Men of the stamp of Talmage and Moody will invoke blessing upon the commonwealth.

A glorious plan of continental bell ringing has been evolved. It will be the grandest peal of rejoicing ever heard. At noon, exactly, by central standard time, the new liberty bell will ring out in tones which will be echoed around the earth. At the same time all the boats in the harbor will salute and every bell in the city will be rung. But the ringing will not end there. Arrangements are being made to have every bell in the United States peal forth at exactly 12 o'clock noon, Chicago time. At night by far the grandest and most extensive pyrotechnic display ever seen will be given.

General St. Clair took Governor Maccorkle's place in the dedication of the West Virginia building.

Mrs. Potter Palmer and the board of lady managers gave a reception at the Woman's building to Mrs. McKee, and the New York state board gave one to Governor Fishback, of Arkansas. Among the ladies present were Miss Helen Gould and Mrs. Russell Sage.

There were 90,661 paid admissions yesterday and it was a stormy day, too.

Aug. 24 will be Illinois day at the fair.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 21.—Dr. Rankin, one of the physicians, has made a statement concerning the condition of Justice Blatchford. He says the judge has suffered two slight shocks, but is now doing well, though very weak. There are no dangerous signs at present, though like all cases of this kind there is a possibility of a fatal stroke at any moment.

A Hint to the Ladies.

A real estate gentleman, who is also a Sunday school superintendent, was trying to sell a lady a lot in town, notwithstanding she wanted to buy one in the suburbs.

"But, my dear madam," he urged, "a woman is practically forbidden by the Scriptures from owning suburban property."

"I don't see what the Scriptures have to do with it," she protested.

"That's because you are not conversant with them," he said. "Don't you know of the lady who had a Lot in Sodom and as soon as she went into the suburbs was changed into a pillar of salt?"—Detroit Free Press.

Misused Nerve.

After a morphine eating contest between two Colorado gamblers, one is found dead, the other is recovered with difficulty. It will be observed that this game for the highest stakes known to man—namely, his life—was played with nerve. In this respect it is not outdone by any incident in the human story, neither is it capable of being surpassed. As such it is entitled to a place in the record of supreme examples of the recklessness that courts disaster. The instance may be useful in illustrating a discrimination in the use of words. It is not an example of the dash that seduces sympathy under the name daredeviltry. It does display the analogous quality disparaged as foolhardiness. The distinction is grounded in the quality of motive inspiring the act. Emulation in the hunting field, for example, that dares an impossible leap beguiles the sympathies. Emulation in eating poison inspires disgust. But the game in this case was played with nerve all the same.—New York Evening Sun.

A Great Paris Bootmaker.

France has lost one of its greatest men. M. Godilot is dead. His specialty was boots. He had an enormous manufactory near Paris, probably the largest of its kind in existence, and would turn out an order for, say, 30,000 pairs of boots for the army with the utmost dispatch. His name lives in the French slang of the day, for his manufacture is so well known that Frenchmen commonly talk, not of their boots, but of their "godilots."—London Tit-Bits.

Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

GENTLEMEN: I had been troubled with HEART DISEASE FOR THE LAST 30 YEARS, and although I was treated by able physicians and tried many remedies, I grew steadily worse until I WAS COMPLETELY PROSTRATED AND CONFINED TO MY BED WITHOUT ANY HOPE OF RECOVERY. I would have very bad sinking spells, my pulse would stop beating altogether, and it was with the greatest difficulty that my circulation could be started, which would bring me back to consciousness again. While in this condition I tried your NEW HEART CURE, and began to improve from the first, and now I am able to do a good day's work for a man 68 years of age. I give DR. DEATH WAS ALONG

And Turned Merriment Into Anguish and Death.

NINE KILLED AND SCORES WOUNDED

A Packed Passenger Train Bearing Homegoers from the Suburban Horse Race Derailed in a Tunnel—Lists of the Victims—One Hundred More or Less Hurt Some of Whom Will Not Live—The Forest Fires.

NEW YORK, June 21.—It was a good natured crowd that boarded the train on the Bay Ridge division of the Manhattan railway en route home from the races where they had witnessed the defeat of the all-egad sure winner of the Suburban handicap, Lamplighter, by Lowlander. The joke was passing freely and laughter was heard in every car of the train, which was going at full speed about half a mile from Parkville. There were six cars coupled to the locomotive. Suddenly a jerk was felt, and the laughter was instantly turned into terror and cries of anguish. The train was derailed while going through a tunnel. There were 1,000 people on board. They stood packed in the aisles and every seat was occupied.

A Scene of Frantic Frenzy.

The engine and the first two cars ran along upon the track, dragging behind them the other cars of the train. Then the engine and the two cars that remained on the track broke loose from the others and were carried by their own speed clear through the tunnel. The other part of the train pulled apart, the first dragging the second part half way through the tunnel. People jumped from the train and fell upon the embankment to be bruised and cut by the cars. Others were carried along upon the train, their bodies rubbed and bruised upon the rocks of the tunnel and the stones of the embankment. Women fainted and men became panic stricken and trampled them and the children under their feet in their mad flight for safety.

Nine Persons in Eternity.

When the train stopped the cooler heads immediately began to render aesistance to the wounded who lay along the track. Policemen who had arrived immediately sent orders to the Brooklyn hospitals for ambulances. In the meantime the wounded had been gathered up and stretched out upon the grass on the embankment. The physiciant who were arriving attended to their wounds as best they could. One hundred person, it is said, found upon this green plot a temporary hospital. Two were kilied instantly and seven died later in the hospital. The cause was a misplaced switch.

Names of Dead and Badly Hurt.

The persons who were killed instantly were Robert Daly and H. S. Pringle; those who died in the hospital are Henry Spink, Robert J. Cudly, —— Quinby, unknown man, B. J. McGonigle, Fritz D. Johnson and John Simlay. The seriously hurt are Andrew Bartolemay, James Fitzsimmons, Patrick Graham, Richard Flynn, James Bradford, Charles Herring and —— Addicks. All these have lost a limb or received internal injuries. Some will undoubtedly die. Scores of others were bruised, cut or otherwise hurt.

NORTHWESTERN FOREST FIRES.

Two Children Reported Burned—Suspicions of Incendiarism.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., June 21.—The forest fires along South Shore and Northern Pacific railways are still burning. At Sanborn, Lampson's lumber yard and several dwellings have been destroyed. Conductors on the South Shore report Ewen, Mich., entirely devastated. The bridge at High Bridge, near Ashland, which was reported to have been burned is still safe. Settlers in vicinity of Sanborn are struggling desperately against the flames. Two children are reported to have perished at Marengo.

The fires at Iron River, Wis., are claimed to have been the work of firebugs. Twice a livery stable was set ablaze, but luckily it was extinguished before beyond control. The authorities are investigating the causes, and if it should turn out as suspected and the incendiaries are apprehended a lynching will result.

Kept at Work With a Gun.

DULUTH, June 21.—Nearly the whole population of Mountain Iron is still engaged in fighting the fire and the danger is not yet over. A number of Poles and Hungarians refused to assist in the work. The marshal of the town compelled them to join the others at the point of a revolver and by the use of the same argument kept them at work.

Burned a Little one Alive.

MADISON, Wis., June 21.—The home of L. Van Dusen was destroyed by fire, and one child was cremated, another badly burned, but will live and a domestic. Theresa Rink; so badly burned that she is not expected to live.

Names of Dead and Badly Hurt.

The persons who were killed instantly were Robert Daly and H. S. Pringle; those who died in the hospital are Henry Spink, Robert J. Cudly, —— Quinby, unknown man, B. J. McGonigle, Fritz D. Johnson and John Simlay. The seriously hurt are Andrew Bartolemay, James Fitzsimmons, Patrick Graham, Richard Flynn, James Bradford, Charles Herring and —— Addicks. All these have lost a limb or received internal injuries. Some will undoubtedly die. Scores of others were bruised, cut or otherwise hurt.

Must Not Discharge Anarchists.

WARSAW, June 21.—An attempt has been made at Lodez, seventy-five miles southwest of this city, to destroy the residence of Julius Kunitzer, a well-known manufacturer of that place. It appears that some time ago Kunitzer discharged a number of his employes, among whom were several anarchists.

Lowlander Wins the Suburban.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The tenth Suburban handicap was won by Lowlander. He was bet against heavily, everybody expecting Lamplighter to win. Terrifier was second, Lamplighter third. The winner gets a stake of $18,000 and his owner had large bets on him at heavy odds, and has won a fortune. The time was 2:06¾.

New Railway Union Started.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The new railroad labor organization, to embrace every branch of service from the locomotive engineer to the flagman at grade crossings, has been started here at a meeting held in Ulich's hall. Eugene Debs was principal speaker and there was much enthusiasm.

MR. NORMAN LICHEY, Des Moines, Ia.

Dear Sir:—A sample of Krause's Headache Capsules was left in my husband's office a few days since. and as I am subject to headaches—neuralgia, nervous, and in fact every other kind—he thoughtfully brought the sample box home. The very next day I had a chance to try them and one capsule relieved me in less than half an hour. Next day I was attacked again, took another capsual withthe same delightful result, in less than half an hour my head felt as well as ever, with no bad feeling as the after result, I have had these tertible headaches for twenty years, and have tried every remedy I ever heard of, but nothing I have ever taken has cured or relieved me as QUICKLY as KRAUE'S HEADACHE CAPSULES. MRS. N. A. SKINNER.

"Have I any objection to your printing a portion of my letter? NO! If my testimony will induce any one who suffers with headache to buy your CAPSULES I will be glad." MRS. N. A. SKIFNER

—The dance at Myer's island last night was a success. Between thirty and forty couples left here on the large barge, and as the little steamer under command of Capt. Will Sarles towed them slowly up the stream it made a very romantic and pretty picture. The display of lights at the dance pavillion on Myer's island was charming, and the moonlight night all that the young people could ask They arrived safely at home shortly after midnight well pleased with the night's enjoyment.

The household of Ellwood Hughes was somewhat disturbed a few nights ago when it was discovered that three men were trying to effect an entrance into an upper chamber window. A noise at the window attracted the attention of a member of the family, who immediately gave the alarm. Upon investigation, it was found the shutters had been broken, and the presence of three men casually leaving the yard, credited the alarm given. A watch was kept, and in a short time they returned, but were frightened away before reaching the house. Mr. Hughes will hereafter keep a shot gun loaded and should he again have a like disturbance, his intruders will receive hard cash for their impertinence.

A number of our people attended the graduating exercises of the Unity school last Saturday evening. The school room in which the exercises were held was beautifully decorated, the platform being completely hidden from view by thick green sod, which formed a very pretty foundation for the class of three young ladies and three young gentlemen, who took their seats upon it, the green grass forming a striking contrast with the white dresses of the young ladies. A very appropriate class motto graced the wall, "Not finished, but begun." Too much credit cannot be given the teacher, Miss Kate Erwin, of Dixon, for the manner in which this class, the first to graduate from the Unity school acquitted themselves, and for her untiring efforts in perfecting arrangements which made the exercises a grand success.

Rev. Leland, of Dixon, preached the funeral sermon of Mrs. Swartwout, Tuesday afternoon. There were present, N. F. Swartwout and wife of North Dixon; A. S. Swartwout, clerk in the U. S. Treasury in Washington, and his son Frank; Rev. Fred Swartwout, pastor of the Baptist church in Mendota; a sister of the deceased from Iowa, and other strangers.

Albert Linn and wife, of Larned, Kansas, spent a short time with old friends last week. They had spent two weeks at the big show in Chicago.

Charles Anderson attended the graduating exercises at the Unity school Saturday evening. They were of a high order and do great credit to the teacher, Miss Kate Irwin, who, by-t e-way, is a Dixon girl as well as a most excellent instructor.

George Stauffer, who a few days ago went to Dimmick, to work in the employ of the I. C. R. R., became homesick to see his near and dear friends, and came home last week and now they are both quite happy.

Prof. Lindsey started to lead a pony of the buckskin order to Davis Junction, Friday evening; but being informed by his townsmen that said animal was subject to fits of despondency upon leaving home, Prof. thought of his absent wife, and not wishing to vacate this terrestial globe, decided to beat a retreat. Some say he climbed a tree, while others say he took safety on Albert Wiggins' hen coop.

F. E. Brimblecom left town Saturday morning with pack and baggage for Stillman Valley. We suppose the Graphic of that city will in its next edition contain lots of sweet things, and that Madam Grundy will wear a smile, O, so sweet!

Ephriam Bowers thinks that eel meat is very strengthening. He thinks that after he catches and eats two more eels he will be able to run a foot race with Charlie Ball of your city and that his name will be eligible to a place beside the eel fishers of Mythology.

Slid Out—Whereabouts Unknown.

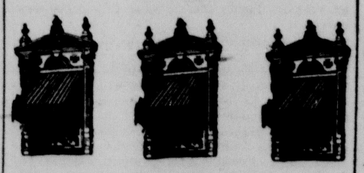

Lacking funds with which to do business, Fred Wuthrich closed his meat shop, corner of First and Peoria avenue, last night and silently stole away. Charles Deitz went into partnership with him two weeks ago and pulled out yesterday, leaving Wuthrich too weak to stand alone.
